CHEERS IN THE COURT

A Day of Sensations in the Baccarat Case.

Cumming's Counsel Assails the Heir to the British Throne.

The Confession Signed to Save the Prince of Wales.

Solicitor-General Clarke's Speech to the Jury Caused Applause In the Courtroom-Plaintiff Was Cheered. By Telegraph to The Times. LONDON, June 8.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] When the trial of the baccarat scandal case was resumed today, Sir Charles Russell took up his address for the defense, which was interrupted last Saturday by the adjournment of court. Sir Charles com nenced by calling attention to Sir William Gordon Cummings's method of playing, saying: "If what Arthur Stanley Wilson has sworn to took place, it excluded all that class of suggestions of which no trace appeared in the correspondence between Sir William, Gen. Williams and Lord Coventry to the effect that the accusation aros from a misunderstanding of plaintiff's system of play." Sir Charles said that in his opinion the only course open to Sir Edward Clarke, leading course for plaintiff, was to announce the whole accusation as an invention. This, he said, would be fatal. "Was it possible for an innocent man to adopt the course taken by the plaintiff?" asked the attorney. "He says he did not ask to be confronted with witnesses because he was advised not to do so, but the innulse of an honorable man would impulse of an honorable man would have been to insist that his accuser have been to insist that his accusers should be brought face to face with him. Instead of this, the jury had placed before them a feeble suggestion that witnesses mistook for acts of cheating coups trois. If this was so, plaintiff's conduct could have been explained, but there was no syllable of suggestion of that kind uttered at Tanberoft. Plaintiff suggest that Tanbycroft. Plaintiff signed that paper and knew that so doing was the same as an admission of guilt."

Sir Charles then endeavored to discount the arraignment of the Wilson family and other members of the Tan-bycroft baccarat party, which he anbycroft baccarat party, which he anticipated would be one of a few errors in the address for plaintiff which Sir Edward Clarke would make for the other side, concluding with the remark that he confidently left defendants' case in the haris of the jury, being fully aware the latter would do their duty and their verdict would uphold the evidence which was given in their behalf.

When Sir Charles Russell sat down there was a murmur of surprise, coun-sel for the defense having closed his address rather unexpectedly.

CLARK HAS HIS INNING.

Solicitor-General Sir Edward Clarke, leading counsel for plaintiff, took the floor and in a few sentences tersely invited the attention of the jury. He then commenced by saying: "It has been common talk that the Prince of Wales's continual presence in court during the trial of this suit has been for the purpose of restraining the tongues of the lawyers engaged in the case from commenting upon the Prince of Wales in connection with it."

"Among the mass of the people," "Among the mass of the people," is Edward continued, uttering each word with startling distinctness, "It is known that a club or an inn could be prosecuted for playing baccarat, and in a great part of the community there was a feeling that this unhappy incident ought never to have been allowed to become known, because the circumstances were those which were at variance with the feelings, with the conscience of the people."

"These, there was the strange and subtle influence of royalty"—still CLARK HAS HIS INNING.

Wales in court would not prevent him from making any comment necessary, saying that the counsel had a painful duty to perform, and that he intended to perform it honestly and fairly, to perform it honestly and fairly. His opnonents, he continued, had His opnonents, he continued, had him. duty to perform, and that he intended to perform it honestly and fairly. His opponents, he continued, had always been careful to allude to him. (counsel for the plaintiff,) as "Solicitor General," and he added: "While I am proud of the title, I must remind the jury that I appear in this case simply as an English barrister, and I am obliged to disregard friendships, and even my own interests, and comment on the conduct and evidence of the highest in the land."

Sir Edward Clarke, as he uttered the king, because they gave their honor as freely as they would have dynasty, or to conceal the foibles of a prince."

A slight ripple of applause, which was promptly suppressed, broke out in the court as the elequent jurist uttered the last words in a most touching and impressive manner.

"The document," continued Sir Edward Clarke, with increasing force and a mind a most deathly silence

ously crossed his legs, while the audience was utterly aghast at what was considered to be the audacity of the Solicitor-General. In several direc-tions the whispered comment. "Why, he is going to attack the Prince of Wales!" was distinctly heard, and caused all the attention to be riveted upon the plaintiff's counsel.

A RAP AT THE PRINCE. Continuing, the Solicitor-General remarked that Sir Charles Russell, for the jury found for the plaintiff and dis-regarded the document the latter had signed at Tanbycroft, the military authorities would take the matter up, and that Sir William Gordon Cumming's name would be stricken from the army list." "I wish to say in unmistakable terms," exclaimed Sir Edward deavoring to appear totally uncon-cerned. After the sensation had somewhat subsided, Sir Edward di-rected his attention to discrepancies which he asserted existed between the papers drawn up at Tanbycroft which accused Sir William Gordon Cumpapers drawn up at Tanbveroft which accused Sir William Gordon Cumming of withdrawing as well as adding counters to those he had previously staked at baccarat, and the statement in which the Wilson family disclaim that there was a preconcerted move to watch Cumming on the second night of the baccarat playing. Sir Edward followed this with an arraignment of the Wilsons, which was most severe and cutting. "Yes," exclaimed the Solicitor-General, referring to the Wilsons, "they undoubtedly have money, but even if Sir William Cumming would condescend to take it from such source, I shall not ask the jury to fix damages beyond the nominal sum."

When court adjourned for luncheon, the Prince of Wales hurriedly left his seat on the bench and, contrary to his usual habits of politeness, completely was a spontaneous burst of applause—cheering and hand-clapping—throughout the court, which caused the Lord Chief Justice to shout, "Silence!—this is not a theater," The Lord Chief Justice's call had the desired effect;

Justice's call had the desired effect; the applause stopped, but, as Sir William Gordon Cumming rose from his seat a minute later and while the Prince of Wales and Lord Coleridge were still on the bench, there was a renewal of the cheers and hand-clapping of which plaintiff appeared to take no notice. The jury it was plainty avi notice. The jury, it was plainly evident, appeared greatly impressed with the speech of the Solicitor-General and as he ended it the remark was heard throughout the court: "Cumming will usual habits of politeness, completely disregarded the humble courtesies of several dames seated in his immediate get a verdict, or at least the jury will disagree."

The court then adjourned until to-morrow, when the Lord Chief Justice

The Solicitor-General, resuming after recess, dwelt strongly upon the fact that the Prince of Wales, Gen. Will-iams and Lord Coventry all passed their opinions on Arthur Stanley Wilson's statement, which the latter had since modified, and upon the fact that the Prince of Wales, Lord Coventry and Gen. Williams testified that there and Gen. Williams testined that there had not been a single suspicious act upon the part of Sir William Gordon Cumming. Sir Edward Clarke dilated upon the facility with which people imagine things when they have been previously advised of their possible existence, and which never really happened. He said there was nothing in the accusations against nothing in the accusations against plaintiff that could not be explained by the system of play Cumming adopted, though the jury were asked to believe that plaintiff had decended to adopt-ing tricks of the lowest sharper. The Solicitor-General commented sarcastic-ally upon the ornamental position oc-cupied by the head of the Wilson's family who coupsel said was not confamily, who, counsel said, was not con-sulted throughout the proceedings and who apparently had to give way to his son-in-law, Lycett Green, who was deputed to defend the family honor. deputed to defend the family honor.
"This man of the mature age of 31," said the Solicitor-General cuttingly, referring to Green, "who rode to hounds four days in the week, when he heard the Prince of Wales say, 'Give him another tenner. I wish people would put their stakes in a conspicuous place,' came to the conclusion that Sir William had been cheating and rose from the table full of a valiant resolution, but, changing his mind, wrote to his mother-in-law in

TO SAVE THE PRINCE FROM SCANDAL. "What was Sir William Gordon Cumming's reason for signing the document

Sir Edward Clarke's plain language throughout when he referred to the Prince of Wales and when he made the assertion that the precis was prepared by Lord Coventry and signed by Sir William Gordon Cumming solely in order to shield the Prince of Wales from scandal, caused one of the greatest sensations of this sensational trial, and those who heard the remarks and those who heard the remarks made in court were so engrossed with them that they were generally dis-cussed afterward, and were commented upon in club and other circles far into

I wish to say in unmistakable terms," exclaimed Sir Edward Clarke, raising his voice until it rang tellingly through the court, "that it would be impossible for the authorities to do any such thing and to leave on that list the names of the field marshal, the Prince of Wales and Gen. Owen Williams."

This bold statement seemed to compately take away the breath of the audience, and caused by far the greatest sensation of the entire trial. A husbed murmer of astonishment not unmixed with dismay and some irritation, swept over the courtroom. One must thoroughly understand the religious worship of royalty which prevails throughout Great Britain, to clearly understand the full meaning of the chrushing significance of the Solicitor-General then said, solicitor-General's words aimed directly at the heir apparent.

> The President Quenches a Rebellion in Streams of Blood.

Hundreds of Citizens Dragged into the Streets and Shot Down.

Hippolyte Himself Personally Super-Intends Several Barbarous Executions-The Work of Death Continues.

By Telegraph to The Times. NEW YORK, June 8.—[By the Associated Press.] The steamer Orange arrived today from Port au Prince and brings the first definite news of the late insurrection in Hayti. The uprising was of a serious character, and for a time threatened important consequences, but the government repressed the rebellion by prompt and stern measures. The insurgents stormed the prison at Port au Prince, and a the prison at Port au Prince, and a number of prisoners were released, when the military appeared on the scene and captured the whole party.

N. B. Walker, a well-known resident of Port au Prince, a passenger on the steamer, states that there was considerable excitement in that city. Martial law was declared. Some sixty persons were shot May 28. Hippolyte has everything in his own hands, and the killing goes on at the rate of two or three persons a day.

A REIGN OF TERROR.

A REIGN OF TERROR.
PORT AU PRINCE, June 1, via New YORK, June 8.—The massacre of St. Bartholomew has had a reproduction here lately. There have been rumors that a revolution against Hippolyte was imminent, and these having reached his ears he caused the arrest of about eighty suspected persons.

Among them was Gen. Sully, who hid himself when informed that he was wanted. Failing to secure him his wife was taken instead and thrown into prison. The outbreak oc-curred May 23. A former cabinet min-ster at the head of a band of well-armed followers stormed the prison and released 200 prisoners who were provided with arms, and when Hippo-iyte's troops arrived there was a bloody battle. The rebels were routed and their leaders shot at once. By nightfall forty men had been put to death. Others were captured and shot on the three following days. Every man suspected went away and was not seen about the of being in sympathy with the insurgents was put to death without trial as soon as captured. Most of the 200 prisoners released from jall by the in-surgents were recaptured and shot.

HIPPOLYTE'S CRUELTY. The outbreak seemed to have been precipitated by the killing of Ernest Rigand, the most prominent merchant of Port au Prince. Hippolyte suspected him of being in communication with Legitime and of having brought a cargo of arms for the rebels. Hippolyte went to his house with a detach ment of soldiers. Rigand denied that he had any arms concealed either at his store or house. The President called him into the street and had him buildog pistol at her. The builet missed. As she reached the back door and he was close upon her he fired again. The second bullet struck the poor girl just above the right ear. She must have fallen just inside the shot down by the soldiers.

The next morning a nephew of Rigard called at Hippolyte's house to ask aim about the killing, not knowing door that leads to the back porch, for a great pool of blood shows that she lay there for some little time. She evidently recovered from the shock that his uncle was shot by the President's order. As soon as he stated the object of his visit Hippolyte had him dragged into the street and shot.

About the same time Alexis Rossi-gonal, an inoffensive and much esteemed man, was shot down without warning. against the cathedral wall and butchered. Seventeen men were EXECUTED IN A BATCH,

As soon as it was learned by the neighbors that the murder had been committed, officers were notified. They rushed to the spot. They were the first to enter the house and found Mamie lying in the yard, conscious, though evidently suffering, while Perry was lying on his back in the front bedroom, gasping in the agonies of death, although owing to his wonderful vitality he did not die until more than two hours later. Mamie was first seen and carried into the basement kitchen ahd while Capt. Lee questioned her, officer Gibson discovered Perry in the position described above. Messages were sent for the girl's father, who works in the railroad shop, and for a physician. Dr. Huntington soon arrived and attended to the girl, while Perry was taken to the receiving hospital.

DYNAMITER GIBSON.

He Gains a Point in the Federal Court at Chicago.
CHICAGO, June 8.—Judge Blodgett this morning quashed the United States Court's indictment against George P. Gibson, secretary of the Whisky Trust, charged with conspiracy to destroy the Shufeildt distillery. The decision was on the ground that the case was one for the State courts, and not for the United States courts, in which there is no statute providing a penalty for the crime for which Gibson penalty for the crime for which Gibson was indicted.

The federal indictment against Gibson charged him with conspiring to bribe Gauger Dewar to set fire to Shufeldt's distillery. Judge Blodgett said the statutes make it a crime for any one to offer to bribe a United States officer to do any act in violation of his lawful duties, but to bribe or induce such officer to do an act not contained within the line of his official duties infringes mostatute of the United States. Distilleries are not under the protection of the United States, and the offense charged is not within Federal cognizance.

A Breezy Session Held Yesterday Afternoon.

PAPER ON THE RAISIN INDUSTRY

posed Change of the By-lawsing the Initiation Fee.

The members of the Ladies' Annex met in regular session yesterday afternoon. It is a matter worthy of note that the hinges of the doors leading to the assembly-room had been oiled, so that the meeting was not continually disturbed by the dismal set your-teeth-on-edge creaking that has here admitted by formal ballot. Mrs. Anna C. Hobbs, in behalf of the In-dustrial Committee, read by proxy an ar-ticle on "Raisins vs. Wine," which advoticle on "Raisins vs. Wine," which advo-cated the culture of raisin grapes in prefer-ence to wine as a matter of profit. Statistics show that three-year-old vines will produce $100 per acre, and vines 9 years old $300 per acre. The work of producing raisins requires more brain and taste than the culture of wine grapes, as the manner of packing has much to do with the sale of raisins, artis-tically arranged boxes often bringing fancy prices. It is here that woman's tact and prices. It is here that woman's tact and skillful fingers come into play. The article sets forth that the raisin industry is foremost among horticultural pursuits. Another new industry mentioned was that of making wheat-sil. The wheat is dried by a dlow heat and then coarsely ground like making wheat-all. The wheat is dried by a slow heat and then coarsely ground like tamp.

The committee on decoration of the courthouse model reported that but two ladies responded to the call issued for a meeting is alled for next Friday morning at 9 o'clock, when all ladies who can do so are earnestly requested to come to the chamber prepared to assist in this work. Walnuts and prunes are needed to complete the decoration and, in the scarcity of red peppers, it was decided to shingle the roof with sprays of berries from the pepper trees, which can be procured in abundance.

By an unanimous vote of the members the president, Mrs. C. M. Wells, was requested to invite C. Mulholland, who is visiting Los Angeles from the North, to deliver an address next Thursday evening at the Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Mulholland is a most entertaining speaker, and will be heard with pleasure, not only by the members of the Annex, but those of the members as well, among whom he has many friends. The lecture is entirely free, and a cordial invitation is extended to the general public. It will be a descriptive lecture on "The Alps of California," which include Mount Whitney and other peaks, precipices, glaciers, cataracts, forests, lakes and streams in the heart of the Sierra Nevadas, a region as grand and beautiful as the Swiss Alps and within easy reach of Nevadas, a region as grand and beautiful as the Swiss Aips and within easy reach of Los Angeles.

A breezy discussion preceded the vote upon the change of bylaws. Mrs. Knight, the chairman of this committee, proposed an amendment which should require all members, new and old, to pay the membership fee of $1. According to the present bylaws only the new members are required to pay this fee, it being entirely optional with the charter members whether they pay it or not. Mrs. Knight, who is a charter member herself, held that this was unfair to the new members. After she had stated the case and given her reasons for suggesting the amendment, one of the members. Mrs. Sleotte by name, rose to her feet and in a very excited manner declared vehemently that the society could not put her out if she didn't pay a membership fee, as she had been a recognized member since its organization and they they had no right to expel her and had no power to do so.

This created a ripple of amazement, as no one had suggested such a thing as putting any one out, it being simply a question of amendment to the by-laws.

Mrs. Knight, calmly and in a lady-like manner, explained this to the indignant and red-faced member, who thereupon partially subsided. When the amendment was put to the test, Mrs. Knight proved to be the only member present who favored it, so the vote was lost and the several hundred, more or less, members who got in on the ground floor, continue to be members by the payment of their dues.

After the transaction of some routine business the meeting adjourned for one week.

After I had agreed to go to Chicago I was offered $3.00 per monta and all my expenses to reproduce the designs in New York, but I decliped to break my word with Mr. Hanchette. I had it then in my power at least to cause some delay by accepting the offer, or making better terms with Mr. Hanchette. I advanced money, by request, for my personal expenses. About the 20th of April I put in a bill on account of my expenses and for money advanced for hardware.

Mr. Hanchette "O. K.d" them and I handed them in for payment, when an Itemized account was asked for up to a date, which I at once made out and handed in. Having waited a few days and not getting a check, I applied for it, but only got one for the sum advanced for hardware. When I presented my whole bill Mr. Hanchette declined to "O K" my expense bill, though he had done so only a few days before, saying I had agreed to pay my own expenses. A Case of Abduction on the East Side.

A SCHEME THAT DID NOT WORK

Frank Wheat Carries Off His Boys to Compel His Wife to Return to Him-The Case in Court.

The police detectives and officers of East Los Angeles were considerably worked up yesterday over the abduction of the Wheat children Sunday evening at 6 o'clock at the hands of their father. Frank W. Wheat, who has been guilty of this thing once or twice since his wife left him about a year

Mrs. Laura E. Wheat lives with per brother at No. 207 Downey avenue, and is highly spoken of by her neighbors. Sun-day evening she called at the East Side station and informed Capt. McKeog that her two little boys, aged 2½ and 6½ years station and informed Capt. McKeog that her two little boys, aged 2½ and 6½ years respectively, had been stolen.

She stated that Wheat, who has been troubling her of late about the children, was noticed finging about the house Saturday and made several attempts to induce the children to go down town and get some clothes, but she headed him off and thought he was gone. Sunday evening she turned her back for a few minutes shortly after 6 o'clock, thinking the children safe, but she was mistaken, for when she returned home both children were gone and she was positive the father had abducted them.

Several officers were started out af once, but they could get no trace of them until early yesterday morning, when Wheat sent a letter to his wife in which he stated that he had taken the boys and proposed to keep them.

He told her that he had a good home for them, and she was also welcome if she would only come back and live with him. Instead of waiting for an answer Wheat put in an appearance near the house soon after sending the letter for the purpose of getting a verbal answer from his wife, it is supposed. This was a mistake on his part, for as soon as he showed up Capt. McKeog took up his stand near by, and proceeded to shadow the abductor.

Wheat waited some time for his wife to come out of the house, but as she knew that the officer wanted Wheat to get tired of waiting and go back to the little boys, she kept out of sight, and soon the abductor turned and waiked away. Capt. McKeog followed Wheat to a lodging-house at No. 1116 New Main etrect. The officer-located the children in a room and the proper authorities were notified at once.

When Mrs. Wheat left her husband they were living at Downay and a few were

When Mrs. Wheat left her husband they were living at Downey, and a few days after they separated Wheat stole the little boys and took them to Texas. This was in September last, and the mother did everything in her power to find her children, but failed.

Just as she was giving up all hope of ever seeing them again, Wheat returned from Texas and turned the little ones over to his wife. He admitted that he took them away to force her to return to him, but she declared that she would never live with him again, as he was in the habit of getting drunk and abusing her.

Until a few weeks ago, Wheat kept away from his wife, but the old desire to have her return came to him once more, and it

The teachers of the city schools were tendered an informal reception last evening in the Assembly Hail of the High school building, by Superintendent W. M. Friesner, and Deputy Superintendent A. E. Baker. The nearly two hundred teachers were out in full force, many of them accompanied by friends, and the result was an animated crowd of bright men and women, who thronged the great hail, filling it with the pleasant buzz of conversation. The rostrum had been tastefully decorated with flowers and foliage, and standing here before the company, A. C. Shafer made a few entertaining remarks, and Miss McLean recited two selections in a very pleasant way. Aside from this the evening was devoted to general sociability. The members of the Board of Education, with their wives, were present, and among the teachers were: Misses Stewart, Shrimplin, Packard, McCarthy, De Hart, Glick, McLean, Hail, Murray, Ross, Lynch, Huston, Wampold, Keudail, Larenthal, Miles, Valters, Wooster, Brigham, Sharp, Vose, Gould, Tracy, Clark, Lillibridge, Dunham, Murphy, Murdoch, McKenzie, Getchell, Fitzmier, Williams, Perry, Cook, Cushing, McCleare Brows, Devin, Alexander, Kane, Hobbs, Carothers, Williamson, Foy, Davison, Vaughn, Cowan, Desmond, Phillipson, Kane, Claypool, Dorn, O'Donoughue, Gray, Keller, Flentjen, Myrick, Taylor, Griswold, Miller, McCormack, Anderson, Root, Strauss, Gordon, Dick Bruere, Bear, Moore, Campbell, Reavis, Hays, Slack, Weinshank, Day, Harndenberg, Oliver, Hassler, Ponman, Olmstead, Leviele, Anderson, Ray, Hamilton, Reeves, Roberts, McConnell, Cory, Baxter, Henry, Tracy, Bengough, Reed, Rorick, Wilson, O'Connor, Joy, Davis, Glbson, Knapp, Stoltenberg, Shultz, Richardson, Blanchard, Biskely, Clark, Dixon, Harrow, Griffiths, Blanford, Auld, Rouse, McGraw, Deacon, Kooch; Mesdames Switzer, Greenman, Orott, Du Bois, Diehl, Smith, Cushman, Miltard, Brodbeck, Clarke, Broadwell, Garbutt, Rorick, Parsons, Fortson, Throop, Betta, West, Munday, O'Gorfman, Henry, White, Madden, Kogitsh, Frick, Thurston, Chapman, Bradfield, Mayhew; Until a few weeks ago, Wheat kept away from his wife, but the old desire to have her return came to him once more, and it was not an uncommon thing to see him hanging about the house. He would go in the yard and talk to the children every time his wife's back was turned, and as she feared he would take the children from her again, she called at the police station and asked Cabt. McKeog to help her. The officer looked Wheat up and told him that if he wished to see his boys he would have to go to the police station and an officer would be detailed to go to Mrs. Wheat's house with him. This he consented to do, and nothing more was heard of him until last Saturday.

and nothing more was heard of him until last Saturday.

Mrs. Wheat has applied for a divorce, and the case is set for hearing next week. Wheat has always been anxious to get his wife to go back and live with him, and the officers are of the opinion that he stole the children Saturday for the purpose of forcing her to withdraw the divorce case and return to him.

Wheat has been married before and has a daughter 16 years of are by his first wife, who is living with the present Mrs. Wheat. That he has never attempted to steal this girl goes to prove that he simply runs off with the boys under the belief that he can frighten their mother into returning to him.

Mrs. Laura E. Wheat then took the stand and testified that she was a dressmaker and resided at No. 207 Downey avenue, East Los Angeles. About 6 o'clock Sunday evening last, she was in the house and her two little boys: Ross and Charley, were playing in front of the house, when their father came along and carried them off. Her husband, with whom she was afraid to live, on account or his intemperate habits, did not contribute toward the support of the children, and she had drawn $20 of his wages from his employer last week in order to pay for the support of his daughter by a former wife. He has on several occasions threatened to carry off the boys, and told her a short time ago that he would kill them "sooner than let her have them, if she got a divorce."

Mrs. O. W. Johnson, a sister of the petitioner, testified to having known Wheat for eight years, and that he was intemperate and violent in his habits.

Frank W. Wheat then took the stand and stated that be found the children out on the street 100 yards from the house, and that he only took them away to his room for the purpose of buying some clothing for them, intending to return tilem. His reason for for this was that his wife refused to allow him to see them if she could help it. He had no objection to their being in his wife's custody pending the divorce proceedings, provided he could see them whenever he wanted to.

Judge McKinley thersupon ordered that the children be returned to the custody of their mother, and that the father be allowed to see them once a week for two hours.

This limitation was made at the earnest request of Mrs. Wheat, who informed the Court that unless it was so ordered, her husband would make his visit last from one end of a week to the other. Prof. Payne's advanced class gave a ghost dance last evening at Illinois Hall which was largely attended and much enjoyed.

At San Francisco yesterday the State the complaint of the city of Pasadens against the Los Angeles Terminal and California Southern railways adversely to plaintiff. The report of the commission says: "From the evidence adduced, it appears that the changes made have been injurious to the material interests of the city of Pasadena, and the main complaint on account of the change has come from that locality. While round-trip tickets were unlimited and lower-rate commutation tickets could be obtained, many persons doisg business in the city of Los Angeles, made their homes in Pasadena and suburbs, to the advantage of those and suburbs, to the advantage of those localities. With limitation placed upon the round-trip tickets and the increase in price of the commutation tickets the advantages Pasadena afforded as a residence locality for Los Angeles business men practically cased. There were, of course, other advantages which Pasadena and adjoining places derived from the old rates, but the main complaint is this loss of resident population and loss of the advantages enjoyed through its presence."

The report declares that so far as the California Southern Road is concerned it cannot compet that road to restore its our rates, as that would be an injustice to the Los Angeles Terminal Company, because the road charging the least would get all the business. J. V. NOTES OF THE DAY.

THE Bering Sea Bill passed the House of Lords yesterday. PREPARATIONS that are being made for a Fourth of July celebration in Los Angeles promise a good display on that occasion. THE Herald and Express are having a regular tooth and nail-or rather tin can and wire nail-fight over the Mc-Kinley tariff bill. CHILE is not so much occupied with THOMAS A. LEWIS, writing from Louisville, among other things urges the need of a first-class, attractive botel in Los Angeles, situated outside business quarter and surrounded by flowers and foliage. THE Kansas Farmers' Alliance is now said to be considering a plan to place the sub-treasury scheme in the hands of private capitalists. The plan is to establish a bank in each county of the State under the direction of the local Alliance exchange. The capital stock is to be furnished by private subscription. In connection with each hank an elevator or storehouse is to be built. The farmer may then dump his grain or cotton into the storehouse, recaiving for it a check for 80 per cent of the value of the grain deposited, by paying a small percentage for storage and insurance. This would be better than asking Uncle Sam to go into the pawnbrokering business.

IF, as is we believe claimed, the clearinghouse figures of Los Angeles are prepared on a different plan from f other American cities, some arrangement ought to be made to have them all uniform, as it creates a bad impression on outsiders to see, week after week, such figures as these in the

In an interview with a reporter or harge of Superintendent Bassett of the Coast division of the South ern Pacific, Col. Crocker appears to have made a slip, and taken the public nto his confidence further than he night have been inclined to do on nature reflection. Referring to the ability of the official under discussion, he is reported as saying:

Any railroad manager who could show operating expenses as low as 40 per cent, of the gross earnings must be a capable man, as 50 per cent is considered an excellent showing for any road, while 70 per cent is common,

At this rate, the profits of railroading are from 30 to 46 per cent. If that is the case, producers might certainly look for a reduction in rates, and yet leave the railroad men plenty of hance to grow rich.

ENTERED AT LOS ANGRES POSTOFFICE 'AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER THE BACCARAT EPISODE.

> The bold references of the English Solicitor-General to the heir to the crown in the baccarat trial, in a speech which was loudly cheered at its con clusion, is a refreshing evidence of independence in a case where it requires much nerve to be independent. It is, of course, rather nauseating to learn that Sir Edward Clarke's words were received by a portion of the aristocratic audience with a "hushed murmur of astonishment not unmixed with dismay and some irritation." It should, however, be remembered that these shocked auditors no more represented the great mass of the English people than Mc-Allister's New York Four Hundred do the people of the United States. The Solicitor-General's speech will undoubtedly be received with cordial approval by 99 per cent. of the English 'middle class," the backbone of the country.

That the people of England enjoy true liberty is manifest from the fact that such independent language may be used against the heir apparent in open court, without reproof. Imagine the possibility of such an occurrence in St. Petersburg, with the Czarevitch in the place of the Prince of Wales! On the other hand, were the son of a President of the United States in the predicament of the Prince, there would undoubtedly be found, as in England, small toadying clique who would en-deavor to shield him from publicity and annovance, although it is not for a moment to be supposed that the Government would lend any countenance to such efforts, any more than the British government appears to have done in this instance.

The incident in question only shows more clearly what is every day becoming evident, that democratic ideas are fast gaining ground in Great Britain. That the English people do not at once demand a republican form of government is accounted for by the fact that they have at present a very near approach to one in everything but name -a government in which the sovereign is but a figurehead, with far less power than our President, and which, in some cases, answers more quickly to a declaration of the popular will than does ours, as, for instance, in the dis solution of Parliament and appeal to the people whenever the ministry is no onger in tune with public opinion. Suffrage is now so nearly universal in England that it is an open question hether a further extension would be a blessing or otherwise. Every man considerably more than most paupers who rents a room, and then has a fixed lace of abode, may vote. The agitation for the abolition of the House of Lords is gaining ground as fast or faster than our Senate tends toward becoming a plutocratic club. In fact. the democratic growth of England during recent years is as noticeable and encouraging as the drift in the United States toward the creation of a plutopolitical power is alarming.

There is one feature of the question which encouragement may be found. With our young aristocracy of wealth, everything that is English goes, from orses to husbands. If they can only e persuaded that democracy is fash onable in England just now, we may expect to see them set the fashion among the Four Hundred of this coun try, with good results.

THE boycott is not gaining friends in this country. Every enlightened. against it, as a thing wholly un-American and in its nature wholly at war with the spirit of free institutions. The boycotting of employers as as of fellow-laborers is likewise prohibited. Maine menaces with wo years' imprisonment and $500 fine whoever by threats, intimidation or force, alone, or in conjunction with others, prevents any person from en tering into or continuing in the employment of any person, firm, or corporation. IGNORANCE OF CALIFORNIA

Eastern People Don't "Sabe" the Sunset Slope-Presidential Speculations-Need of a First-class Hotel in Los Angeles.

LOUISVILLE (Ky.,) May 31. [To the Editor of THE TIMES. | Every man, woman or child you meet after you reach the Missouri River wants to know the exact truth about California, and I give it to them just as nearly five years of residence in that faires of all lands has impressed me. To start with, I am a Californian. It is my home and they are my people, and Lighting Company for non-burning I am coming back more pleased and better satisfied than any man who ever crossed the "Rockies." I tell my old friends of our country and they look at me with a hopelessness in their eyes that says too plainly that they feel sorry for me, but must be forced to think I am gone wrong in the head. I tell my acquaintances of what can be done with money and muscle, and they immediately begin to discusss the size pumpkins, and liars that are produced in California, and go off muttering something about forty-horse-powerdouble-back-action—etc., etc., and disappear in the coal-soot and dust. God knows I feel sorry for them. If they just knew what kind of country it is that lies away out there under the sunset they would come there and be comfortable and happy during the long, hot summer, instead of laking themselves off to "do the con-checkered trougers" where under the long, hot summer, instead of laking themselves off to "do the con-checkered trougers" where under the long of the con-checkered trougers. comfortable and happy during the long, hot summer, instead of taking themselves off to "do the continent in four weeks," so they can spend all the rest of the time in Paris. This is the time for the exodus to Europe from this country, and how many of from this country, and how many of our Americans who go over at least every other year, know one thing of the great empire that lies beyond the Rocky Mountains? They know noth Rocky Mountains? They know n othing of our climate, our fruits and flowers, and above all our great prosperity, and like the man they meet abroad, they only think of California as a land of "digging," and dangerous mines and things like that. They don't know that we are fast growing to be the richest people on earth, with education and refinement that are superior to many and equal to all the older to many and equal to all the older States. The standard and excellence of our public schools is one thing I grow prouder of the more I learn of other States. Let the Board of Education look jealously to their duty and protect their good work against any infrac-tion. I find our schools to be one of the greatest drawing cards to those who are looking earnestly for a home where it is a pleasure to live, and away from the rugged. rigorous winters. The one thing that impresses me

The one thing that impresses me most is the ignorance that abounds about California. The first thing they say is, "it's so far!" They don't seem to think it is just as far one way as it is the other, and how much the best of it we have at our end.

Politics is growing quite warm all over the Ohio Valley, and the general impression is that the race of 1888 will be repeated. The well-informed think Cleveland a ours winner for the Demo-cratic nomination, and those of the opposite party think Harrison the next standard-bearer, and it looks that way to me. The collectors of inter-nal revenue in this State ran the convention which met this month. One was chairman, an-other boss and store-keeper, and gau-gers too thick for comfort, and the same kind of convention which was held in Kentucky will be held all over the South, giving Harrison two or the South, giving Harrison two or three hundred delegates the start of any other man. There is no uprising or popular shouting on the subject, but it seems the outs are letting the revenue only) boys run the old machine, and you know what that means, McKinley will be the next Governor of Ohio.
That's settled and don't have any fears. If the Presidential race was a year further off it might be interesting to watch the original McKinley men fall in line. He is gaining ground and we 'wheels go round."

The farmers' move is claiming the attention of the sages, and they are making some astonishing figures, al-ways with Gov. Stanford in the forefront. It is popularly discussed that with his millions and his well-known the President and his ambition to succeed himself. If the Farmers' Alliceed himself. If the Farmers' Alliance hold their convention before the Republicans and nominate the Governor, what can the Republicans do but follow suit. Don't you think, Mr. Editor, that there are a select few of us who might as well begin to count the milestones across the State—i. e. as far as politics are concerned, if that happens. The ouly two men I hear discussed at all are the President and Stanford with an occasional nativotic discussed at all are the President and Stanford, with an occasional patriotic and independent expression for McKinley. Blaine seems merged into the administration figut—and his most enthusiastic friends don't expect to see him before the convention; but it's a long journey through the home stretch, and there are many changes during the crucial test, as I was reminded last week when my sure winner was romeweek when my sure winner was romping home with the Derby, some fellow bellowed out, "Look at Kingman!" and then I saw him in front of Balgowan, and I turned to my friends and asked them if they had any more business there. I was very deeply dis appointed. I wanted to see my friend, Lieut. Clay, win with Balgowan. It would have been a popular victory in Los Angeles, as the Lieutenant is one of the most popular men ever stationed among us; and then Polk, Bailey, Mer-riner and all the rest of the Col. Carter crowd would have met and shaken the is the silk worm's eden and the paradise of the mulberry tree."

and shadows.

I know what I am writing about, for many years I had to hunt for climate for the benefit of my family, and if the hotel was not roomy and airy and free from smells it was no use unloading the trunks. Think of it, a ride across the continent, and at the end of the Mojave desert, with its heat and suffering, then the beautiful awaking as you are whirled through the most excussite are whirled through the most exquisite country on this earth—the San Gabriel Valley—you are landed in the city. Surely this must be the home of the angels, and you are taken through our beautifully-paved streets and landed, not at what you expected, a hotel with suitable grounds, but in the heart of a closely-built, thickly-settled city. What a breaking up of the delusion! No wonder so many go straight on to the seaside hotels and give us a wide berth seaside notes and give afterward in their wanderings.

AN ENGLISHMAN'S BOOTS.

Sure Way to Recognize One

John Buil's Sturdy Subjects.
(Chicago Tribune)
It is a fact perhaps not generally nown that the surest way to tell the Englishman abroad is by his shoes, or, as he calls them, his boots. They invariably thick and clumsy in ap-pearance, with heavy soles, more like a cowhide boot than anything else. They are made to wear and are as much superior to the American article in this respect as the latter is better in oint of looks.

An Englishman, but long since Americanized, thus tells how he spot-ted a fellow-countryman of his by his boots. He had received a telegram that an old friend of his English days, checkered trousers. Whereupon the English-American began to scrutinize all the trousers that sat, stood or walked within the rotunda.

The looker-on thought to himself: "I believe that must be an Englishman. But yet—" Then his eyes glanced downward again until they reached the boots. The sight was enough. It recalled memories that nothing else had been able to awake. He went up to the man with the boots and we not to the man with the boots and was no mistaken. It was his old friend, Afterward the accent and such phases as: "Oh, I say, you know." "That's the game, is it?" brought "the English of t" very emphatically home to him, but it was the boots that really did the trick. The traveler wondered afterward in a naive way, because "I say, I don't know why, because "1 say, 1 don't know why, but these fellows all seem to know I'm Euglish!" My friend acquiesced in wonder, openiy. Secretly he thought of the boots and did not wonder.

Associated Press. ] At the semi-annual meeting of the Viticultural Commis sion today, Charles A. Wetmore, chief viticultural officer, made a report regarding the extension of the market for grapes. He states that it is of importance to wine-producers of Califor nia that the sweet-wine law be con strued so as to permit eastern winemakers to make wines out of grapes only, and where it is impossible to obtain sufficient is accharine strength in one place it is presumed they will be permitted to obtain it in another, provided that the material used comes solely from the solely from the grape, and is used in connection with legitimate fermentation of the grape: procured in vicinity of the wine-makers. He desires that eastern wife-makers be permitted by ruling of the department at Washington to use ondensed or boiled grape juice from California whenever their necessities require it. The intention of law as it stands, was simply to prevent the use of free spirits in the manufacture of bogus. Imitation or adulterated wines.

Mr. Wetmore proposes to increase the market value of wine grapes in California as follows: By drying and by establishing brandy distilleries, established on the coöperative principle in vineyard districts. The report contained a lengthy synopsis of his plan. tained a lengthy synopsis of his plan.

STORMY POLITICAL OUTLOOK IN THE DOMINION.

The Leading Government Organ Sounds a 'Note of Warning-Liberals Confident of a Speedy Victory.

By Telegraph to The Times.

TORONTO, June 8 .- [By the Associated Press.] From almost every point in Canada come tidings of universal sorrow at the death of Sir John Macdonald. Everywhere signs of mourning are to be seen. Arrangements guns at Ottawa, and in every city in Canada during the progress of the funeral of the dead Premier. There is a strong feeling that an autopsy ought to be made on the body of Sir John by independent medical men in order that the public may really know what caused his death.

This morning a dispatch from Ottawa savs: "All sorts of rumors are flying around today as to whom the Governor-General will call upon to form a new government. It is said today that no one has yet been summoned by the Governor, and that it is not probable any one would be until after the funeral. This delay of at least five days is almost without precedent. It gives pointto a curious story to the effect that the Governor-General left the meeting of the Royal Society at Montreal rather hurriedly last Wednesday and called upon Sir John Macdonald at Earnscliff the next day. It is said Sir John whom he thought then indicated should be called upon to form a new ministry in case his illness terminated

The matchless leader is no more. The tongue of the patriot is silent. The head which planned and the hand which executed in his country's service are laid low in death. Remember that those who would abandon British rule on this continent and hand us over to the dominion of a foreign country have for years had their ghoulish hopes placed on the death of the leader that they might undo the work which he has done, that self-convicted traitors who have become the mouthplece of a once great party have declared in a treasonable pamphilet which the grand old man himself dragged to light that "whatever course the United States may see fit to adopt, it is plain that Sir John's disappearance from the stage is to be the signal for a movement towards annexation."

"Forewarned is forearmed." -Even in the lifetime of the leader they made their desperate onset, but were driven back by his valorous arm. He gave his life blood to the contest and now he is a martyr to his country's cause. But the new opportunity they have hoped for has come, and every force that can be used for blotting out from the map the name of Canada and handing us over in the language of traitors as "atter of northern States," will be marshalled to the fray with redoubled fury. The hope of the enemy is in the prophecies that when the old leader is gone the hosts he has led so often on to victory will be scattered as sheep wanting a shepherd. When the piotters and traitors, both domestic and foreign, who are seeking to bring about the annexation of this country to the United States, through specious schemes of unrestricted reciprocity and countmental free trade, have been so completely crushed that they will never dare to raise their heads again in Canada, then and act till then can a minor or side issue be discussed.

DR. WOH,

The Eminent Chinese Physician.

Dr. Woh's life work has been from early youth one of persistent and untiring observation, study and investigation, as fully as lay in his power to perfect himself in all branches of the art of healing human sickness and disease. Born in China, of influential parents, of a family whose ancestors have been for generations deservingly renowned as leading physicians, Dr. Woh naturally followed in the footsteps of his fathers. In China he has pracised his profession for saveral warms being at one he has practiced his profession for several years, being at one time a physician in the imperial Hospital, and in America for a long time his great number of patients, his wonderful and many cures, and the great list of letters from grateful and thank-ful patrons now prove him to be a remarkable and successful healer of sickness and all diseases.

For many years I have been troubled with lung disease, which finally ended in asthma and consumption.

I consulted with the best physicians I could find but they did me no benefit, but on the contrary I got worse and worse, until it was told by one of them I could not recover. Dr. Wob took me in this condition. He has in two months time entirely cured me. I most cordially recommend him to all sufferers.

A Nashville Bank Robbed of a Large Sum by an Emloyee-The Chicago Bakers' Strike.

Bu Telegraph to The Times. Sr. Louis, June 8 .- By the Associated Press.] Under the head of "Creeds Crumbling," an evening paper quotes Rev. Frank G. Tyrell, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church of this city, as saying that all signs point to the dissolution of orthodox creeds. Mr. Tyrell pointed out forcibly the discussions in regard to matters of belief and faith which have shaken the Protestant Church, and from this drew the conclusions that creeds are crumbling and will ere. long disappear.

He cannot, he says, accept the belief of the trinity of Jesus, and when asked why he believed that Protestant creeds are failing, he replied that one had but to notice how teachers of the gospel are demanding the right to make their own deductions, provided they acknowledge the divinity of Christ. Tyrell's statement created a sensation among orthodox ministers.

STERLING EXCHANGE —Weak; 69-day bills, 4.84; demand, 4.34%. New York, June 8.—The generally ac-cepted diagnosis of the situation in the stock market now is that the market will remain in the same dull and listless condition until gold shipments are known to have ceased or some damage has been done to the growing crops. The market today opened higher, but stories of gold shipments caused a reaction. Upon contradiction of the gold shipments the market recovered, but on rumors of an unfavorable crop situation, prices went down again. In the last hour there was a rally and the market closed firm, with not a single important change for the day.

Government bonds were steady.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

On Weighty Matters-Locale Blg and Little-People Coming and Golng-A Batch of Brevities.

T. F. Goodrich has a letter on Pasadena in the Democrat of Shelbyville, Indiana, issue of June 1. The article which in the main sticks to the facts of the case, unfortunately inspired the Shelbyville editor to give it the follow ing soul-stirring heading:

'The land of flowers. Veritable bowers of beauty and nothing to do. An elysium for the rich; but a poor man stands no show where the nabobs have pitched their costly tents, at Pasadena. Climate sells for $200 per front inch, while a small orchard that is bearing, is a gold mine that it takes a national bank to buy."

national bank to buy."

Probably the editor was led to pen the above by portions of Mr. Goodrich's article. Here we have, for instance: "It (Pasadena) is a city of elegant homes, a place where the rich have congregated to enjoy their wealth, a city where it seems business cares seldom haunt the mind. The residences are palatial, while the lawns are veritable gardens of kings. Everything grows here, and what America does not furnish, Africa, Asia, Italy and Spain have been called on to supply, and the jungles of the Dark Continent and the parks of the royal families of Europe have been invaded to furnish what the remainder of the world lacked. Down one street and up another does this panorama of magnificence extend till the eye grows weary of what it beholds. Ask where the poor people live and you are told that we have none. Seek for the omnipresent Chinaman and he is not here. The population is said to be the cleanest of any city in the world excepting day night.

An informal hop will be given this week by the San Gabriel Social Club at Hotel San Gabriel.

Superintendent of Streets Brown continues to pay strict attention to keeping our many thoroughfares in order. order.

The tennis club is considering the advisability of giving an invitation tournament some time soon. It is likely the project will be carried out. The population is said to be the cleanest of any city in the world, excepting none. They simply control their own affairs, dictate what shall and what shall not be, live in luxury, and are content with themselves and with the world at large."

All of which is very pretty, but not quite in accordance with the facts, for we have poor people, we have also Chinamen, and even business cares are not unheard of. Further on the writer

"Y ale College is now constructing on this peak an observatory that will con-tain a telescope that is larger than the famous telescope at Lick Observ-atory." a statement that will cause most Pasadenians to open their eyes in wonder.

Still the article is for the most part satisfactory, and reads well under any circumstances.

It is true that the past winter has proven a severe drain on the eligible stock, and yet there are many left. Merchants, accountants, capitalists and young men of leisure, all are here. Certainly our girls are not wanting in beauty, inteligence and finencial backing and with her sister, Mrs. Charles W. Wit giris are not wanting in beauty, intelligence and financial backing, and why they are permitted so long to remain misses (in many cases, as you say, against their will,) is to us a deep, dark mystery. The art of swindling continues to be practiced with more or less cunning and skill in all guarters of the globe. Eveline Leal, a beautifut, dashing Englishwoman, recently came to grief in Paris through her audacious adaptation of a very old trick. Knowing the universal passion for-wealth and the common gullibility of its votaries, she was in the habit of in ments in French journals that a widow with a fortune of 1,200,000 francs wished to marry a nobleman or a wealthy commercial gentleman. This alluring bait drew slyly how much ready cash each had at his disposal. Then when the question of settle-ments came up she modestly suggested a cash deposit to appease the solicitude of fictitious relatives who showed an abundance of bogus securities as her contribution to the marriage portion. The dupe would as a rule display all his available wealth; the marriage would take place with great ceremony in the orthodox fashion, and a day or two afterward the bride would dis appear with all the valuable belongings of her trusting husband. The fair Eveline amassed a fortune by wedding at least forty-three men of standing. One of her forty-three men of standing. One of her victims was a French marquis, another a British lord, both of whom were mulcted of large sums, but smothered their resentment in their fear of exposure and its attendant ridicule. Eveline's marriage trick, pleasant, profitable and merry though it was, was tried once too often, and she now languishes in a French jail.

JACOB SONDERIM.

A very sharp German Jew named Jacob A very sharp German Jew named Jacob Sondheim, well known in America, has been trifting with the universal passion for pelf in London. His was no vulgar matrimonial scheme, however, but a downright bluff that he possessed the philosopher's stone, and was willing to afford ceular demonstration of its power to turn base metals into glittering gold. His latest pigeon was Edwin Streeter, the well known is weller of Bond street. Sondheim induced pigeon was Edwin Streeter, the well known jeweler of Bond street. Sondheim induced Streeter to visit his room and witness the operation of the maric process. Streeter gave him a sovereign, which Sondheim threw into a crucible, covered with a powder, and after pretending to melt the cor tents, pulled out a lump of gold equal in weight to three sovereigns.

Streeter was delighted with the experi-ment, but his suspicions were aroused when this modern alchemist asked him to furnish 8,000 sovereigns, so that they might, by the use of the stone, be turned into a block of gold worth £24,000. A de tective was employed, who discovered that Sondheim's method was to place the sovereigns in the melting pot, and then throw is a composition which produced a stend terrible enough to drive every one from the room—that is, every one but himself, for Sondheim was stench proof, and quickly pocketed the gold and decamped. He had played the trick successfully in Liverpool

MARSHALL C. PERCIVAL

Another case of crookedness runs in a familiar rut. M. C. Percival was the National bank of Auburn, Me. National bank of Auburn, are. The only adverse criticism ever passed upon him was that he was too much inclined to speculation. It was this trait that led him astray. He delved in the bank's safe when things did not run his way, and when the denouement came a short time ago he was a defaulter to the extent of $160,000. He mada over securities worth $50,000 to the made over securities worth $40,000 to the bank, and his bond of $20,000 and other resources will be drawn upon to help cover his deficiency.

Viewing the Departure of a Soul. So it seems we are to be enabled to establish intimate and visual relations with the spirit world. At any rate a startling story to that effect comes from Paris. The tale declares that a "French scientist"—name not given—has invented an apparatus whereby souls can be placed on view. He tested the machine at a deathbed recently, and recognity, to his own, where cently, and according to his own uncorroborated account achieved a thrilling success. Says the alleged scientist, but kept our eyes ateadfastly fixed on the op-ject glass. The purticles of dust in the air were magnified many thousands of times, and for a moment their violent movement produced a cloud in front of the glass. Then a delicate column of vapor, con-densed into a flocculent mass, was clearly seen above and around the body. Particles appeared to pursue one another as if obedi-ent to some kind of central attraction.

appeared to pursue one another as if obedient to some kind of central attraction. The cloud condensed more and more and took the vaporous form of man, then rapidly became purified until it was as colorless as the most perfect crystal.

The form floated at about a foot above the body, to which it was distinctly united by a delicate cord. The face was undoubtedly the face of the man, but much finer and calmer. The eyes were closed, and the astral shape seemed to be asleep. By a double impulse we, both of us, experienced the desire that the form should awake. At that very moment the bond which joined to the body broke. A slight trembling passed over this beautiful, perfectly modeled form; a violet flame shone where the heart should be. It stood up and gave a sorrowing look at the abandoned body, extended the right hand with a gesture of adieu, then vanished.

MASONIC.

The Five Heroines of the Order of the Easter Star Various Notes In arranging the Order of the Easter Star the founder looked for five characters who should perfectly exemplify five classes of heroic virtues. The first four were to be in analogy with the daughter, widow, wife and sister of Master Masons. The fifth was found in the well known Catholic legend of Electa, one of the most affecting narratives of apostolic times. There are therefore five heroines of the order—Adah, Jephthah's daughter, because she freely sacrificed her life to save her father's honor; Ruth, because she willingly left home and friends to dwell with the people of God; Esther, because she was prepared to render up her crown, and even life itself, to save her people from destruction; Martha, be-cause of her undeviating faith in the merits of her Redeemer; Electa, because she pre-ferred to suffer death rather than deny her religious belief.

Mr. Marshall was a very wealthy man, and is known by hundreds of people in this locality and in Los Angeles. He owned land in Po-mona, Ontario and some valuable real estate in Los Angeles. THE DEHAIL CASE DECIDED Mechanic's Lien Cases Decided by Judge Wade-Wong Ark on Trial for Murder-General Court Notes.

Judge Van Dyke yesterday granted the motion of the defendant in the case of Mrs. Alice Dehail et al against the City of Los Angeles, for judgment on the pleadings in accordance with the following concise "This is an action to restrain the sale of plaintiff's property on an assessment to pay damages, costs and expenses in the widening of First street between Los Angeles and Alameda streets.

"It is conceded that the ordinance or resotherein expressed, and must hold that the ordinance or resolution of intention in this case fails to comply with the statute in not case fails to comply with the statute in not 'specifying the exterior boundaries of the district of lands to be affected or benefited by said work or improvement, and to be assessed to pay the damages, costs and expenses thereof.'

"This is jurisdictional, and if the statute be not complied with in respect to the resolution of intention the whole proceeding fails.

"The defect in the matter noted being shown by the pleadings, the motion by plaintiff's attorney for judgment on the pleadings must be granted. "WALTER VAN DYKE, Judge."

A QUESTION OF MECHANIC'S LIEN. Judge Wade denied the motion of the de-fendants for a new trial in the case of the San Pedro Lumber Company against J. T. Madden and others, three mechanic's lien cases which had been consolieated by consent, but admitted it as to one of them, E. C. Griffith, in accordance with the following written on the others, and upon this point I requested counsel to furnish authorities.

"When the motion was argued it was understood by the Court that there was a bill of exceptions which had been served upon all the parties, presented for settlement, and duly settled. No notice was taken of the fact at the time that there was no appearance for one of the parties, the San Pedro Lumber Company. If the bill of exceptions was ever settled under the provisions of sec. 650, C.C.P., after having been served upon every one, it does not appear in the record. It seems to be tacitly admitted, however, that service was had upon two of the parties. Service should have been had upon all.

"The bill of exceptions does not appear to have been signed by the Judge nor is there any memoranda showing that the bill was ever settled of presented for settlement nor agreed to by she p riles. The minutes of the Court show, however, that the bill of exceptions was settled on April 27, and ordered engrossed. If it ever was engrossed the engrossed bill does not appear among the papers. There is a skeleton draft which was filed with the clerk April 13, which is all that is found at this time. The motion—action would have been apparent, and the result would not have been that he would not have been entitled to judgment. If a new trial is gr.nted as to him, it is because of this fatal defect in his pleadings, and I can see no good reason why his mistake should redound to the injury or embarrassment of the other plaintiffs, into association with whom he was in a manner forced by the order of the Court.

"The order will therefore be that the motion for a new trial is granted as to the plaintiff, E. C. Griffith, in case No. 10,667, and denied as to the other plaintiffs.

"W. P. WADE, Judge."

The motion was argued with this skeleton before the Court and nothing to indicate whether the absent party, the San Pedro Lumber Company, accepted it or not.

"In this dilemma plaintiff's brief suggests that the bill of exceptions was never served upon the San Pedro Lumber Company. If so the bill should not have been settled, unless the Court were the settlement of the bill of exceptions inquiry as to the service of the bill as required by the code would be in order, provided all parties interested were not present and consenting to the order settling the bill. But how is the Court at this late day to decide upon the bare suggestion that it acted without jurisdiction on the 27th day of April last?

"Yet if it appeared by afflicavit or otherwise to the satisfaction of the Court that one of the plaintiffs was not served with the bill of exceptions before the settlement, as well as with the notice of intention to move for a new trial, the motion would be denied as to all.

A rather sensational affair was witnessed by a few people on Spring street, near Fourth, Sunday afternoop. A man was Fourth, Sunday afternoop. A man was walking quietly up the street when a woman rather plainly dressed, came up behind him, and with a quick blow sent his hat flying into the gutter. As the man turned the woman landed a stinging blow on his face, knocking him down, and at the same time jumped toward a buggy standing near by and attempted to get the whip out of the socket, apparently with the intention of chastising the unfortunate. She was prevented, however, by the occupant of the vehicle, and before anything could be done, both the man and woman had disappeared. The names of the parties, or the cause of the trouble, could not be ascertained.
